

Hotel Napoleon Paris Unveils New Renovation

The refurbishment of all of the five-star hotel's rooms combines modernity and functionality with classic elegance, directly inspired by the Napoleonic period.

The property's extensive renovation and redecoration was personally overseen by its owners and top managers who chose each furniturishing, painting and lithograph from the Napoleonic period/19th century. There are even documents bearing the Emperor's signature Today Hotel Napoleon Paris, is known as a haven of charm and elegance, ideal for tourists and businessmen.

Under the auspices of its General Manager, Mr. Ludovic Corpechot, the hotel has taken on a new look. The design of the interiors has been revamped; rooms redeccorated, the hotel has invested significantly in updating its technology.

Half of the hotel's rooms face Avenue de Friedland and rooms on the top roof have breathtaking views of Arc de Triomphe and the Eiffel Tower. First floor suites have private terraces. The other half of the rooms overlooks a lush and intimate interior courtyard and atrium.

Situated in the middle of the "Golden Triangle" of Paris, the Hotel Napoleon has direct access to the business district as well as tourist monuments, fashion houses and luxury boutiques, and museums. Hotel Napoleon Paris is one of the last fully independent hotels in Paris.
